Supporting the rapidly growing warehousing and logistics demands for the entire Southern California region, the Inland Empire is a powerhouse of industrial inventory and continues to exhibit robust fundamentals as of the first quarter of 2019. The counties of Riverside and San Bernardino, which make up the Inland Empire market, are attracting investors and developers, as well as leading retail warehouses and distribution centers. Vacancy is still tight and remained at record lows. Meanwhile, rental rates remained at record highs. While some volatility may emerge as a result of changing macro-economic conditions, tight inventory in this market is expected to push rents up further with increased demand.

Industrial construction activity resumed rapidly post-recession and has met pre-recession averages without escalating to pre-recession highs. The market had 94 industrial projects under construction as of the first quarter of the year, exceeding 22.0M sf of new inventory that is expected to be delivered during the coming year. The largest project to deliver at the beginning of 2019 was Prologis Park Moreno Valley Eucalyptus, consisting of four LEED Silver buildings located in the North Riverside submarket. The project adds 1.5M sf of new inventory, 53% of which is pre-committed to tenants. The next largest delivery in the first quarter was a spec development at 4323 Indian Ave in Perris, located in the South Riverside submarket. The 657k SF facility delivered with no tenant pre-commitments, and sits on over 30 acres of land, adjacent to high profile distribution centers including the likes of Home Depot, Lowes, Ross, Walgreens and Amazon.

As of the first quarter of 2019, vacancy shrank to 5.0%, down from 5.1% in the previous quarter, and down more significantly from 5.5% at the same time one year ago. Vacancy has remained within a tight range for the past four years running, in spite of the consistent addition of new inventory. The industrial market recorded positive total net absorption of 5.4M sf for the quarter, and positive 23.1M sf for the most recent 12 month period. Rental rates for the entire market on average reached a new high in the first quarter at $0.71 psf FSG, up from the previous quarter at $0.69 psf FSG, and significantly elevated from $0.59 psf FSG at the same time in the previous year.

The Inland Empire's unemployment rate, as of the first quarter of 2019, has risen to 4.3%, up from 3.9% in the previous quarter, and up from 4.1% one year ago. Within the market, unemployment was 4.5% in Riverside County and 4.2% in San Bernardino County. Retail accounted for half of the job losses in the first quarter. Transportation and warehousing have been leading the way in employment gains year-over-year, along with significant additions in government jobs. Meanwhile, hospitality, healthcare and education are also expanding as a result of population growth.
