Same Song, Second Verse: Industrial Market Fundamentals Remain Solid and Development Activity Continues to Accelerate

Heading into 2020, commercial real estate in Orlando is going to be affected by a combination of headwinds and tailwinds, however the industrial sector is expected to continue its stellar performance. Interest rates have moderated after the yield curve inversion during the third quarter and the pace of job growth in Orlando continues to outpace the rest of Florida. The trade war with China no longer dominates the headlines but the looming presidential election and escalating tensions in the Middle East may create some degree of volatility as the year progresses. The U.S. economy is entering its 11th year of expansion and 2020 is anticipated to be another strong year for commercial real estate as a whole, despite current geopolitical tensions. Investment activity is anticipated to remain strong as industrial remains a preferred asset class for investors due to strong demand, rental rate appreciation, and the ripple effects of an ever-expanding e-commerce sector.

Net absorption ended 2019 in positive territory after being in the red for a couple of quarters due to the impact of a 1 million sf industrial building landing back on the market after being vacated by Winn-Dixie. While overall rents (including manufacturing and flex space) are down 2.5% year-over-year, bulk distribution rents have increased by 6.5% and warehouse/distribution rents are up 5.1%. Industrial development continues at a brisk pace, particularly in the Airport/Southeast and Northwest submarkets and several additional new projects are being planned.

The feverish pace of industrial development refuses to abate with 3.4 million sf delivered during 2019 and another 4.1 million sf underway

Industrial Market Snapshot

- Industrial investment activity was fairly tempered over the past year, with total industrial investment sales volume nearing $334 million over the trailing 12-month period ending December 2019. There were no significant single-property or portfolio transactions during the fourth quarter, and the largest sale was the acquisition of 770 Gills in the Airport/Southeast submarket by First Industrial Realty Trust for $6.3 million, or $117 per sf.
- Once again, there is more new industrial space actively under construction than has been delivered so far this year, with key developers including McDonald Development Company, Seefried Properties, Prologis, Dalfen America, EastGroup, Foundry, Tavistock in partnership with McCraney Property Co., and Blue Scope Properties.
- Amazon was very active in the Orlando area during 2019, and there are signs that they will continue to expand their presence during 2020. Seefried Properties is currently underway on a 115,280-sf last-mile logistics and distribution warehouse for the company in central Orlando on South Orange Blossom Trail, in addition to preparing to break ground on another 1.4 million-sf warehouse just north of Orlando in Volusia County. Seefried is also planning 280,000 sf of industrial space on a 19.5-acre site just north of Lake Nona according to plans filed with the St. John's River Water Management District,

- although there are no reports to date that imply Amazon intends to occupy the space.
- Foundry Commercial is seeking permits to expand its Princeton Oaks industrial development in the Silver Star area, with three additional buildings planned for a total of 267,904 sf of warehouse/distribution space. This next phase of the 120-acre project could begin during the second quarter of 2020. The development is in close proximity to the Packing District, a historical area which is being repurposed as part of a $480 million redevelopment project. Some of the industrial space there will be razed, and those displaced tenants will likely seek new space nearby.
- Another massive project is being planned on a 243-acre site in the Airport/Southeast area where Dalfen Industrial ("Dalfen") intends to develop a 2.8-million of speculative industrial project. Situated inside the city limits of Orlando, the class A development will be able to accommodate larger users between 100,000 of and 1.5 million of, allowing it to compete with other large bulk facilities along the I-4 corridor in Davenport and Lakeland. The site is expected to attract the interest of e-commerce fulfillment users due to its proximity to Orlando's population of over 2.6 million.

Reporting Methodology: This report includes all industrial buildings and parks 20,000 SF and greater in the Orlando MSA that are not government owned. All rents are reported on a triple-net basis and are direct weighted averages calculated on total available space. The information in this report has been collected by the Avison Young research team via sources that are deemed reliable but not guranteed.

Net absorption ended the year in positive territory but would have been significantly higher were it not for a single 1+ million sf warehouse that hit the market earlier in the year that was vacated by Winn-Dixie.

Prologis is Acquiring Liberty Property Trust in Massive $12.6 Billion Deal

2019 was a year of major entity-level acquisitions, most recently New York-based Blackstone Real Estate Income Trust, Inc.'s $5.3 billion purchase of Global Logistics Properties' 64 million-sf portfolio, so it is fitting that the final quarter of the year brought another massive transaction. Prologis, Inc. announced in October that it was under contract to acquire Liberty Property Trust in an all-cash transaction valued at $12.6 billion. Upon deal closing, Prologis will add 107 million sf of quality logistics inventory to its 797 million sf portfolio of office, warehouse and logistics assets, expanding its footprint in 87 markets across the country. At the time of the announcement, Liberty had 5.1 million sf under construction with approximately 1,700 additional acres that could be developed as industrial product in the future, in addition to having a substantial presence in the South Florida, Tampa, Orlando and Jacksonville markets. Prologis plans to divest itself of Liberty's 4.9 million sf of existing office assets following the deal's closing, in keeping with Liberty's earlier plan to do so in order to focus on the industrial sector.
